A Torrible Yacht Adventure.

The London Telegraph, in a recent issue, says: In connection with the wreck of the yacht Astarts and the gallant rescue of her crew there are some interesting facts which have not yet been made public. The Astarte, belonging to Mr. R. A. Napier, of Glasgow, was caught in the gale of the 21st ult., in the Micoh, . while ranning from Tarbert, Harris, to Barca, in the outer Hebrides. On Monday afternoon she ran for shelter to an island at the entrance of the Sound of Harris, called Greanern, about four miles from Lochmaddy, and close to the Uist coass. The gale increased to a burrious during the night, and the sea ran fearfully high. The yatch dragged her anchors, and was eventually dashed on to the rocks near a small island about eleven miles from the west coast of Harris. where she soon broke up and sank.

The passengers and crew, among whom were three ladies and two children, were with much difficulty got ashore with life lines. They were dragged through the raging surf, one lady ba-ing nearly drowned. They took what sucker they could among the heather which grew on the top of tale small rocky island. The privations they suffered were intense, and the forse of the gaio was such that they with difficulty prevented themselves from being blown off the rook into the sea.

Thus they remained wet and starved, being utterly without food all that day and night until early next morolog, when relifeame to them from the most unexpected quarter. It appears that some men on the Uist coast saw the wreck of the yacht, but owing to the fearful sea running no beat would venture out. Three men proceeded over the hills to Lochmaddy and gave information to the Propurator Fiscal, who instantly telegraphed the news to Lord Danmore, io Harris.

The telegraph was received in the middle of the night, but in less than two hours his ford ship got a crew of three mon together, who preceded under his command to make ready west gale for eleven miles through a heavy sea of open Atlantic. After beating for five hours they reached the island, and found the women an i children in an exhausted state. After administering spirits and food to them they were put on board the gallant little boat and were taken back to Rodel, in Harris, in safety, where they were treated with the great est care by the shooting togants. The little boat then put to tea again for the second time and rescued the remainder, whom she brought back to Harris in the afternoon. Lord Danmore's fishing boat is called the Dauotless, and well has she now earned her name, as no other boat on the coast would ven ture out that day, and a few more hours of exposure on that storm beaten rock must have been attended with sprious results to the women and children. The names of the resoning crew

are Lord Danmore, John McRie, E con Mc-

Lood, and Norman M.cDonald.

Horrobs of a Prison .- The Milwaukoo Sontinel of yesterday contains an account of horrible atrocities in the Milwaukee House of Correction. The institution is used at the discretion of the court as a State prison. An intelligent, convict, just released, whose character for veracity is vouched for by prominent persons who know him intimately, states that he has been an inmate for two years. All that time he was not allowed to write to his counsel, friends or family, who supposed him dea 1. He says the bread turnished to the convicts is made from damaged cow feed, and this stuff is paid for by the counly at the rate of $6 a barrel. During his confinement embryo calves, dogs and glandered horses have been furnished as meat, and he brings the bones, which are now in the posses. sion of the editor of the Sentinel, to prove it The details in this respect are horrible beyond description. Of the brutalities of the keepers he says the prisoners were beaten and confined in the black hole, which is a flithy dog kennel of five feet four inches by five feet. A man cannot lie at length in this kennel, nor is there any ventilation. The floor is covered with indescrib-able fith. Men are placed there for twenty days at a time, and two to his knowledge have died from the effects described. There is a chair factory connected with the institution, and it is charged that the police are in collusion with the superintendent to kidnap men to work at chair making. The whole story is the most startling, and revolting ever published in this country, and it is claimed that the charges can all be resided.
